In our work with public institutions, international organizations, private sector clients, and all our stakeholders, adherence to ethical principles is not only a legal obligation but also an integral part of our corporate culture.

Through this Code of Ethics and Anti-Corruption Policy, we aim to ensure that all our employees, managers, consultants, and business partners act in accordance with the principles of integrity, impartiality, fairness, and professionalism. We declare a zero-tolerance approach to all forms of bribery, corruption, conflicts of interest, abuse of authority, discrimination, harassment, and other unethical conduct, and we are committed to conducting all our activities in compliance with applicable legislation, internationally recognized ethical standards, and the principles of good governance.

We remain firmly committed to continuously strengthening our ethical corporate governance framework, enhancing transparency and accountability, and fostering a working environment built on trust for all our stakeholders. Yada Global Bilişim Planlama Proje Pazarlama İnşaat Sanayi ve Ticaret Limited Şirketi

1. Fundamental Ethical Principles and Scope

1.1. Policy Statement

Yada Global Bilişim Planlama Proje Pazarlama İnşaat Sanayi ve Ticaret Limited Şirketi (hereinafter referred to as "Yada Global") believes that ethical integrity, transparency, and fair competition principles are the most fundamental building blocks of a sustainable business model. Our Company does not permit any form of illegal or unethical acts, including bribery, corruption, extortion, abuse of duty, embezzlement, or bid rigging, and applies a "zero tolerance" policy across all business processes.

This policy is designed to ensure full compliance with international conventions and regulations—such as the United Nations Convention against Corruption (UNCAC), the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA), and the UK Bribery Act—as well as all applicable anti-corruption legislation of the Republic of Türkiye.

Yada Global recognizes that it can maintain its reputation, technical excellence, and reliability in its operational sectors—Geographic Information Systems (GIS/CBS), software development, spatial planning, and advanced information technologies—only by upholding the highest standards of business ethics. In this framework, integrity and corporate compliance rules are not merely a legal obligation, but also the primary driver of our Company's global growth strategy.

1.2. Scope and Field of Application

This Code of Ethics and Anti-Corruption Policy applies to all domestic and international activities, representative offices, and projects of Yada Global, and directly binds the following parties without exception:

- Corporate Leadership: Founder, General Manager, company executives, department heads, project managers, and all employees holding managerial authority.
- Employees: All Yada Global personnel employed on a full-time, part-time, contractual, project-based, intern, or temporary basis.
- Third Parties: Consultants, independent contractors, commercial agents, intermediaries, and distributors acting on behalf of, representing, or providing services for the Company.
- Business Partners: Subcontractors, suppliers, consortium partners, and joint ventures collaborating with Yada Global in national or international projects, tender processes, and grant programs (Horizon Europe, World Bank, Development Agencies, etc.).

Mandatory Compliance: Strict compliance with this policy is an absolute prerequisite for being employed by, representing, or establishing a business partnership with Yada Global. Any violation of these rules shall lead to the termination of employment contracts for cause without compensation, the immediate unilateral termination of commercial partnerships, and the initiation of judicial/criminal proceedings before the relevant judicial authorities against the individuals committing the violation as well as the executives tolerating them.

2. Prevention of Corruption and Bribery

Yada Global considers all forms of corruption and bribery in its globally conducted information technology, technology, spatial planning, Geographic Information Systems (GIS), and project consultancy activities as a direct threat to its corporate existence and ethical values. Our Company undertakes to preserve its impartiality in project consultancy and technical advisory processes, as well as its relationships with business partners and all stakeholders in the supply chain, without ever compromising on the principles of integrity, fairness, and transparency.

The corporate compliance structure outlined below symbolizes Yada Global's commitment to combatting corruption, its zero-tolerance pledge, and the protective shield and justice mechanism it has established within the framework of national and international legislation. Accordingly, all our employees, representatives, and consultants are required to make business decisions and conduct technical planning and consultancy services based purely on objective criteria, fully cleared of any expectations of unfair material or non-material gain.

ANTI-CORRUPTION & ANTI-BRIBERY STANDARDS

Yada Global Zero-Tolerance Commitment and National/International Anti-Corruption Standards

2.1. Strict Prohibitions and the Private Sector Bribery Offense Under the Turkish Penal Code (TCK)

Yada Global strictly prohibits any form of informal or illegal payment, attempt at bribery, mediation of bribery, or acceptance of bribery during business development and project execution processes. This prohibition encompasses relationships with public officials as well as relationships with other commercial enterprises in the private sector.

The Private Sector Bribery Offense Under the TCK and Its Sanctions:

BRIBERY OFFENSE IN THE PRIVATE SECTOR PURSUANT TO THE TURKISH PENAL CODE (TCK) AND LAW NO. 3628

Pursuant to TCK Article 252/7; providing a benefit, directly or through intermediaries, to individuals acting on behalf of any private law legal entities (private companies, limited liability companies, consortiums)—regardless of direct or indirect partnership relations—as well as cooperatives, publicly held joint-stock companies, professional organizations, foundations, and associations, even if they are not public officials, in order to perform or refrain from performing a task related to the execution of their duties constitutes the offense of bribery.

Yada Global employees or third parties acting on behalf of the company shall not demand, offer, or accept any material or non-material benefit to or from a customer, supplier, subcontractor, or competitor in the private sector for the purpose of securing an unfair commercial advantage. Such acts constitute an individual offense subject to severe criminal sanctions under the TCK.

Security Measures Against Legal Entities (TCK Article 253): In cases where the offense of bribery is committed for the benefit of a private company, security measures shall be applied against that company, including the revocation of operating licenses and the confiscation by the state of all material benefits and gains subject to or derived from the bribery.

Compliance Commitment to Law No. 3628: Our Company fully complies with its legal obligations regarding the prevention, tracking, and reporting of bribery and corruption acts pursuant to Law No. 3628 on Declaration of Assets, Combatting Bribery and Corruption.

2.2. Facilitation Payments

Informal small payments made to officials to expedite or guarantee a routine procedure (obtaining licenses, legal permits, visa approvals, customs clearances, etc.) in public institutions or private sector processes—known as "facilitation payments"—are strictly prohibited by Yada Global.

Even if such payments are accepted as exceptions under certain foreign anti-bribery laws, they constitute bribery or misconduct in office under the Turkish Penal Code. Yada Global employees shall never be held responsible for any potential delays or disruptions in business processes resulting from their refusal to make such payments.

2.3. Integrity Protocol in Procurement and Supplier Relations

Procurement processes represent one of the most sensitive areas regarding corruption risks. Yada Global conducts its procurement operations within the framework of full transparency and objective criteria:

- Direct Procurement Principle: In the procurement of goods and services, it is essential to work with direct manufacturers or authorized suppliers who directly assume procurement responsibility, provide added value, issue invoices themselves, and bear financial and legal liability.

- Intermediary Restriction: Procurement through intermediary entities or individuals cannot be conducted without the approval of the Procurement Committee. In exceptional cases where the use of an intermediary is mandatory, negotiations must be verified by contacting the primary supplier as well.
- Dual-Attendance Rule: Throughout the procurement process, to ensure transparency and eliminate the risk of individual misconduct, at least a second Yada Global employee (from cross-functional units or management) must attend all official and unofficial meetings held between procurement department staff and suppliers.

2.4. Gifts, Hospitality and Entertainment Limits

Gifts, hospitality, and entertainment offered or accepted for the purpose of maintaining or strengthening business relationships must never influence objective decision-making or create any sense of obligation or expectation of preferential treatment. The following rules shall apply:

- Prohibition of Cash Gifts: The offering or acceptance of cash, gift cards, shopping vouchers, gold, shares, or any other cash equivalent financial instruments as gifts is strictly prohibited, regardless of their value.
- Nominal Value Limit (EUR 50): Corporate gifts and hospitality may only be accepted or offered if they are of a purely symbolic or promotional nature (e.g., pens, diaries, or commemorative items) and do not exceed a value of EUR 50 (or the equivalent in the local currency).
- Restrictions During Active Procurement and Tender Processes: No gifts, meals, hospitality, or entertainment may be offered to any public official or private sector representative involved in an active tender, procurement, proposal evaluation, or contract negotiation process in which Yada Global is participating.
- Compliance Notification and Prior Approval Register: Any corporate gift, hospitality, or entertainment that exceeds, or is likely to exceed, the EUR 50 threshold must be reported in writing and approved before being offered or accepted. Such activities shall be recorded in the Company's internal Gift and Hospitality Register following prior approval by the designated responsible authority.

3. Conflict of Interest Management

3.1. Definition and Potential Conflict of Interest Situations

A conflict of interest arises when the personal, financial, family, or political interests of a Yada Global employee, consultant, or business partner interfere with—or appear to interfere with—their ability to perform their professional duties objectively and in the best interests of the Company and its clients. An actual act of misconduct is not required for a conflict of interest to exist; even the potential for such a conflict may undermine corporate integrity and stakeholder confidence.

Given Yada Global's operations in advanced technology fields such as software development, Geographic Information Systems (GIS), and spatial planning, potential conflict of interest situations include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Personal Financial Interests and Investment Restrictions: Employees and their immediate family members (spouse, children, parents, and siblings) shall not hold any financial interest or ownership in Yada Global's suppliers, clients, or direct competitors. As an exception, investments in publicly traded companies may be permitted, provided that they do not exceed 1% of the company's total share capital or a fair market value of USD 25,000, and are subject to prior written approval by the designated responsible authority.
- Outside Employment and Secondary Employment Restrictions: Yada Global personnel shall not, without the Company's prior written approval, provide consultancy services to competitors or suppliers, engage in secondary employment, establish or operate a business on their own behalf, or serve as a member of the board of directors of another organization where such activities may create a conflict of interest.
- Family and Close Personal Relationships (Nepotism): Favoritism involving immediate family members in procurement, supplier selection, recruitment, or performance evaluation processes is strictly prohibited. Likewise, immediate family members shall not be placed within the same direct reporting line or supervisory relationship within the Company.

3.2. Organizational Conflict of Interest (OCI)

As a company actively participating in international grant programmes and public procurement processes, Yada Global applies strict measures to prevent Organizational Conflicts of Interest (OCI). OCI may arise in three principal situations, and the Company adopts the following safeguards to mitigate these risks:

- Biased Ground Rules: Where Yada Global has participated in preparing the technical specifications, terms of reference, evaluation criteria, or other procurement documents for a tender or grant programme, the Company shall not participate in the subsequent implementation or execution procurement process in order to preserve fair competition.
- Impaired Objectivity: Yada Global shall not undertake assignments requiring the independent evaluation, verification, or audit of software, analyses, GIS models, or other deliverables that it has developed itself. The Company shall avoid any situation in which it would be required to assess its own work.
- Unequal Access to Information: Where Yada Global has obtained non-public, proprietary, or confidential information through a project that could provide an unfair competitive advantage in future procurement processes, such circumstances shall be reported to the designated responsible authority. The Company shall not participate in the subsequent process until appropriate information barriers (Chinese Walls) have been established or the relevant information has been made equally available to all participants.

Conflict of Interest Identification and Resolution Cycle (Identify → Disclose → Evaluate → Resolve)

3.3. Mandatory Disclosure and Compliance Protocol

All employees and long-term contractors are required to complete and sign a Conflict of Interest Disclosure Form upon commencement of their engagement and to update and resubmit this declaration annually.

Before the submission of proposals under international programmes (such as Horizon Europe projects or World Bank procurement procedures), it shall be confirmed in writing that none of the experts, managers, or other personnel involved in the proposal has any actual, potential, or perceived conflict of interest, or any direct or indirect relationship with the evaluation committee or decision-making bodies of the funding organization.

Where an actual, potential, or perceived conflict of interest is identified, the individual concerned shall immediately disclose the situation and withdraw from the relevant procurement process, evaluation activities, or project assignment, as appropriate.

4. Fair Competition and Intellectual Property

Yada Global believes that sustainable success in software development, spatial planning, Geographic Information Systems (GIS), and other advanced technology sectors depends on a strong commitment to the principles of fair competition, the protection of intellectual property rights, and ethical business practices.

The Company is committed to promoting a free, fair, and transparent competitive environment while protecting its own software, digital solutions, data models, and other intellectual property assets. At the same time, Yada Global fully respects the intellectual property rights of its clients, business partners, suppliers, competitors, and all other stakeholders.

The corporate compliance illustration below represents Yada Global's commitment to the principles of fair competition and its corporate approach to safeguarding the integrity of its proprietary software, geospatial data models, and other intellectual property assets.

- Prohibition of Cartels and Bid Rigging: Any anti-competitive practices, including price-fixing, market allocation, customer allocation, or bid rigging in public procurement procedures or private sector purchasing activities, are strictly prohibited.
- Prohibition on Sharing Sensitive Information: Employees shall not disclose or exchange commercially sensitive or non-public information with competitors through any channel, including professional associations, industry events, or informal meetings. This includes, but is not limited to, pricing strategies, profit margins, bid details, draft project budgets, and strategic business plans. Employees should be aware that, under competition law, informal or verbal agreements may have the same legal consequences as written agreements.
- Integrity and Fairness Towards Competitors: Employees shall not make false, misleading, or unsubstantiated statements about competitors or their employees. Yada Global competes fairly, relying solely on the quality of its services, technical expertise, innovation, and professional excellence.

However, individuals who knowingly submit false or malicious reports with the intention of defaming colleagues, competitors, or other parties shall be subject to disciplinary action in accordance with the Company's Disciplinary Procedure.

The Company is also committed to protecting the dignity, self-respect, and personal integrity of its employees. Any form of systematic psychological pressure, intimidation, harassment, or emotional abuse (mobbing) intended to undermine an employee's well-being, reduce performance, create a hostile working environment, or force resignation is strictly prohibited. Any employee found to have engaged in workplace bullying (mobbing) shall be subject to immediate disciplinary proceedings.
